BETTY AND THE YETI!

THE ORDINARY GIRL WITH THE EXTRAORDINARY BEST FRIEND!

WORDS & ART: Hugh Raine

What did the saucer say to the cup? 'None of your lip!'

CHALKS AWAY!

All you need is a large, flat area of concrete and some coloured chalks to make your own fun like Betty and Yeti!

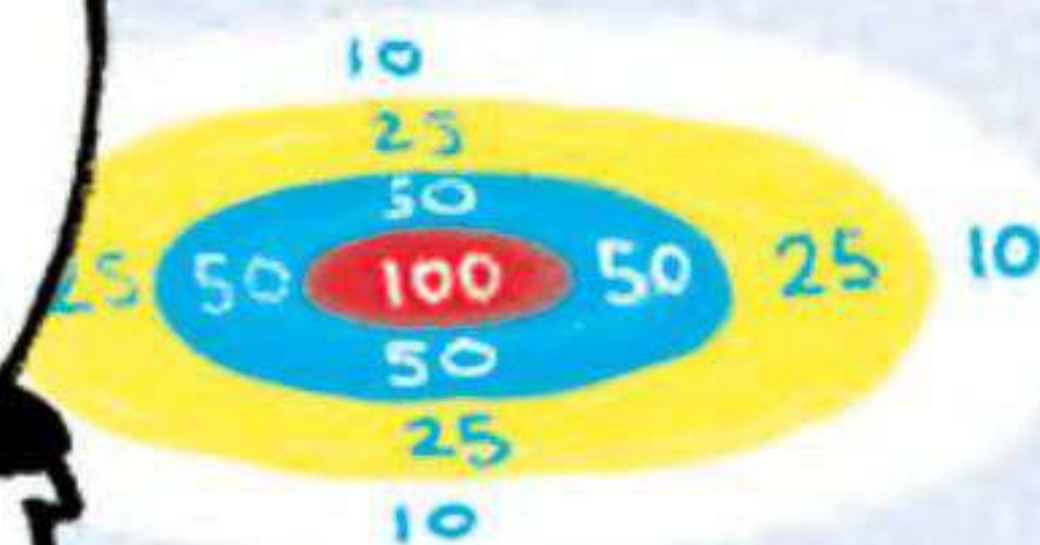

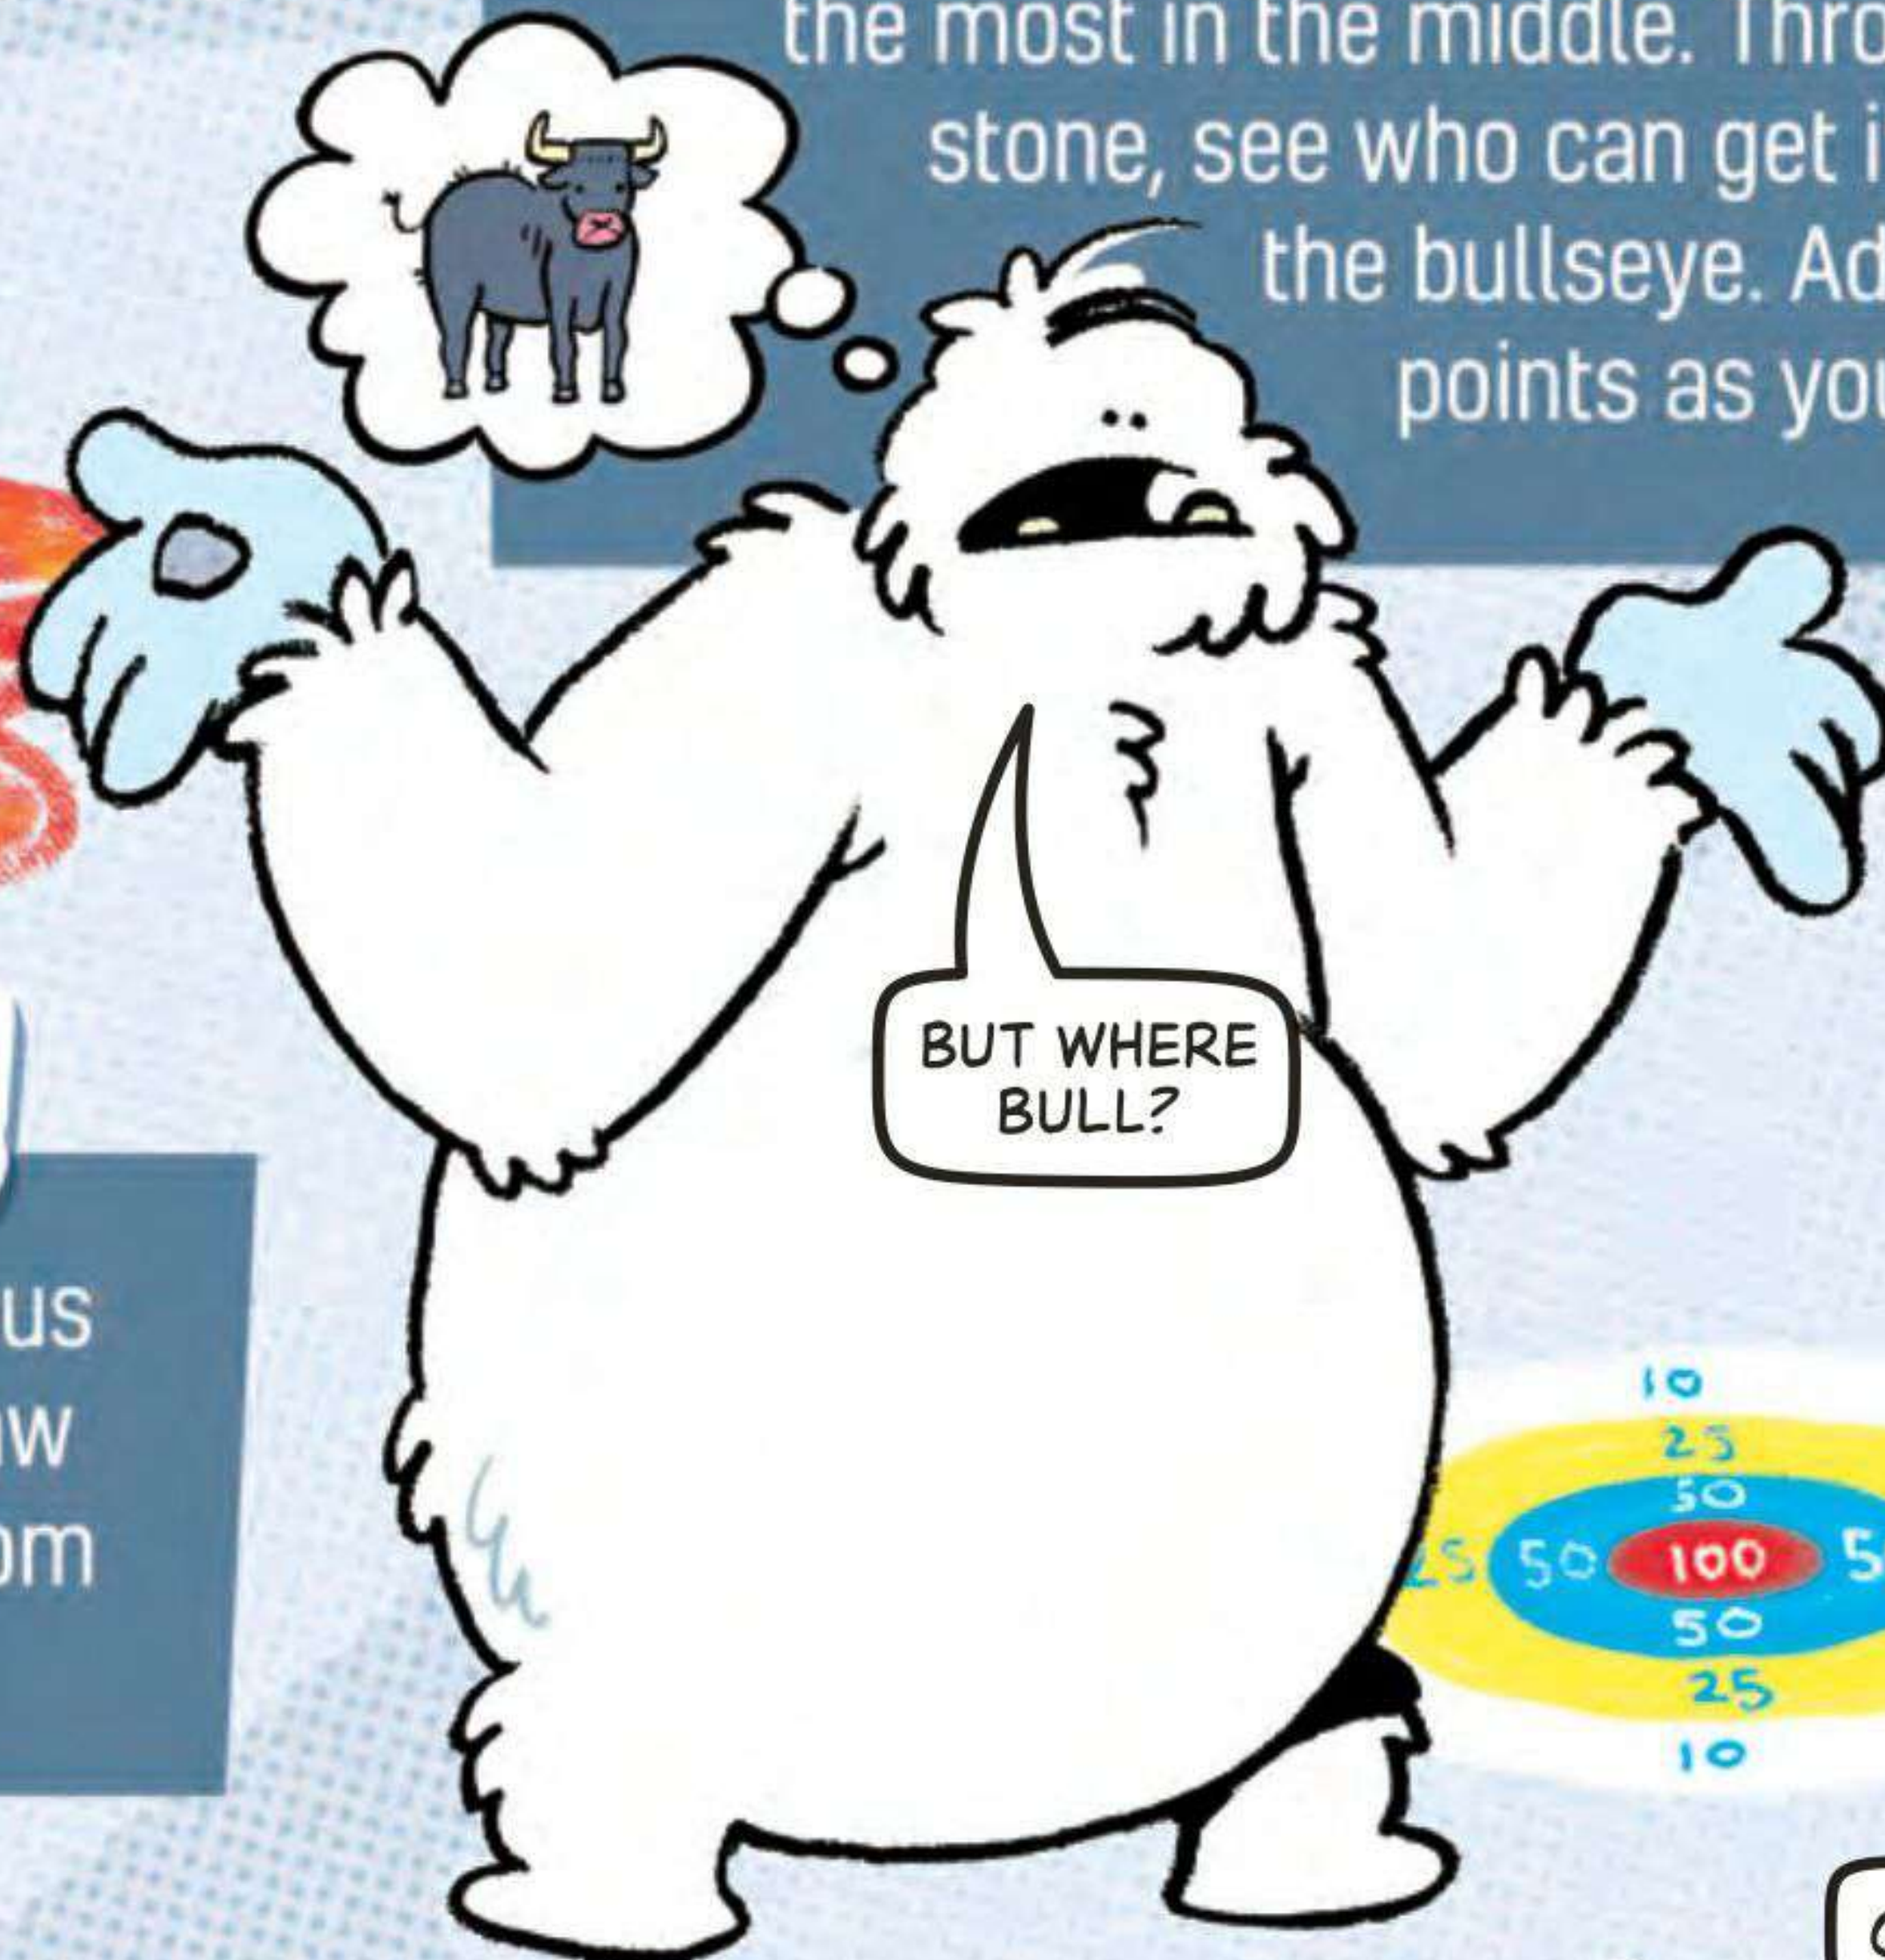

BULLSEYE!

Use different colours of chalk to draw a set of circles like a target with a bullseye in the middle. Within each circle, write points with the most in the middle. Throwing a small stone, see who can get it closest to the bullseye. Add up your points as you go.

THE FLOOR IS LAVA!

With different coloured chalks, draw circles various distances apart. Use red and orange chalk to draw pools of lava between them. You have to jump from circle to circle without landing in the lava!

CORNERS!

Draw a large square and, in each corner, draw a smaller square, colouring each a different colour. In the middle, draw a large circle. Choose someone for the middle to close their eyes and count to ten. Meanwhile, everyone else chooses a corner to run to. With eyes still closed, the person in the middle calls out a colour - whoever is in that corner is out. The game ends when everyone is out.

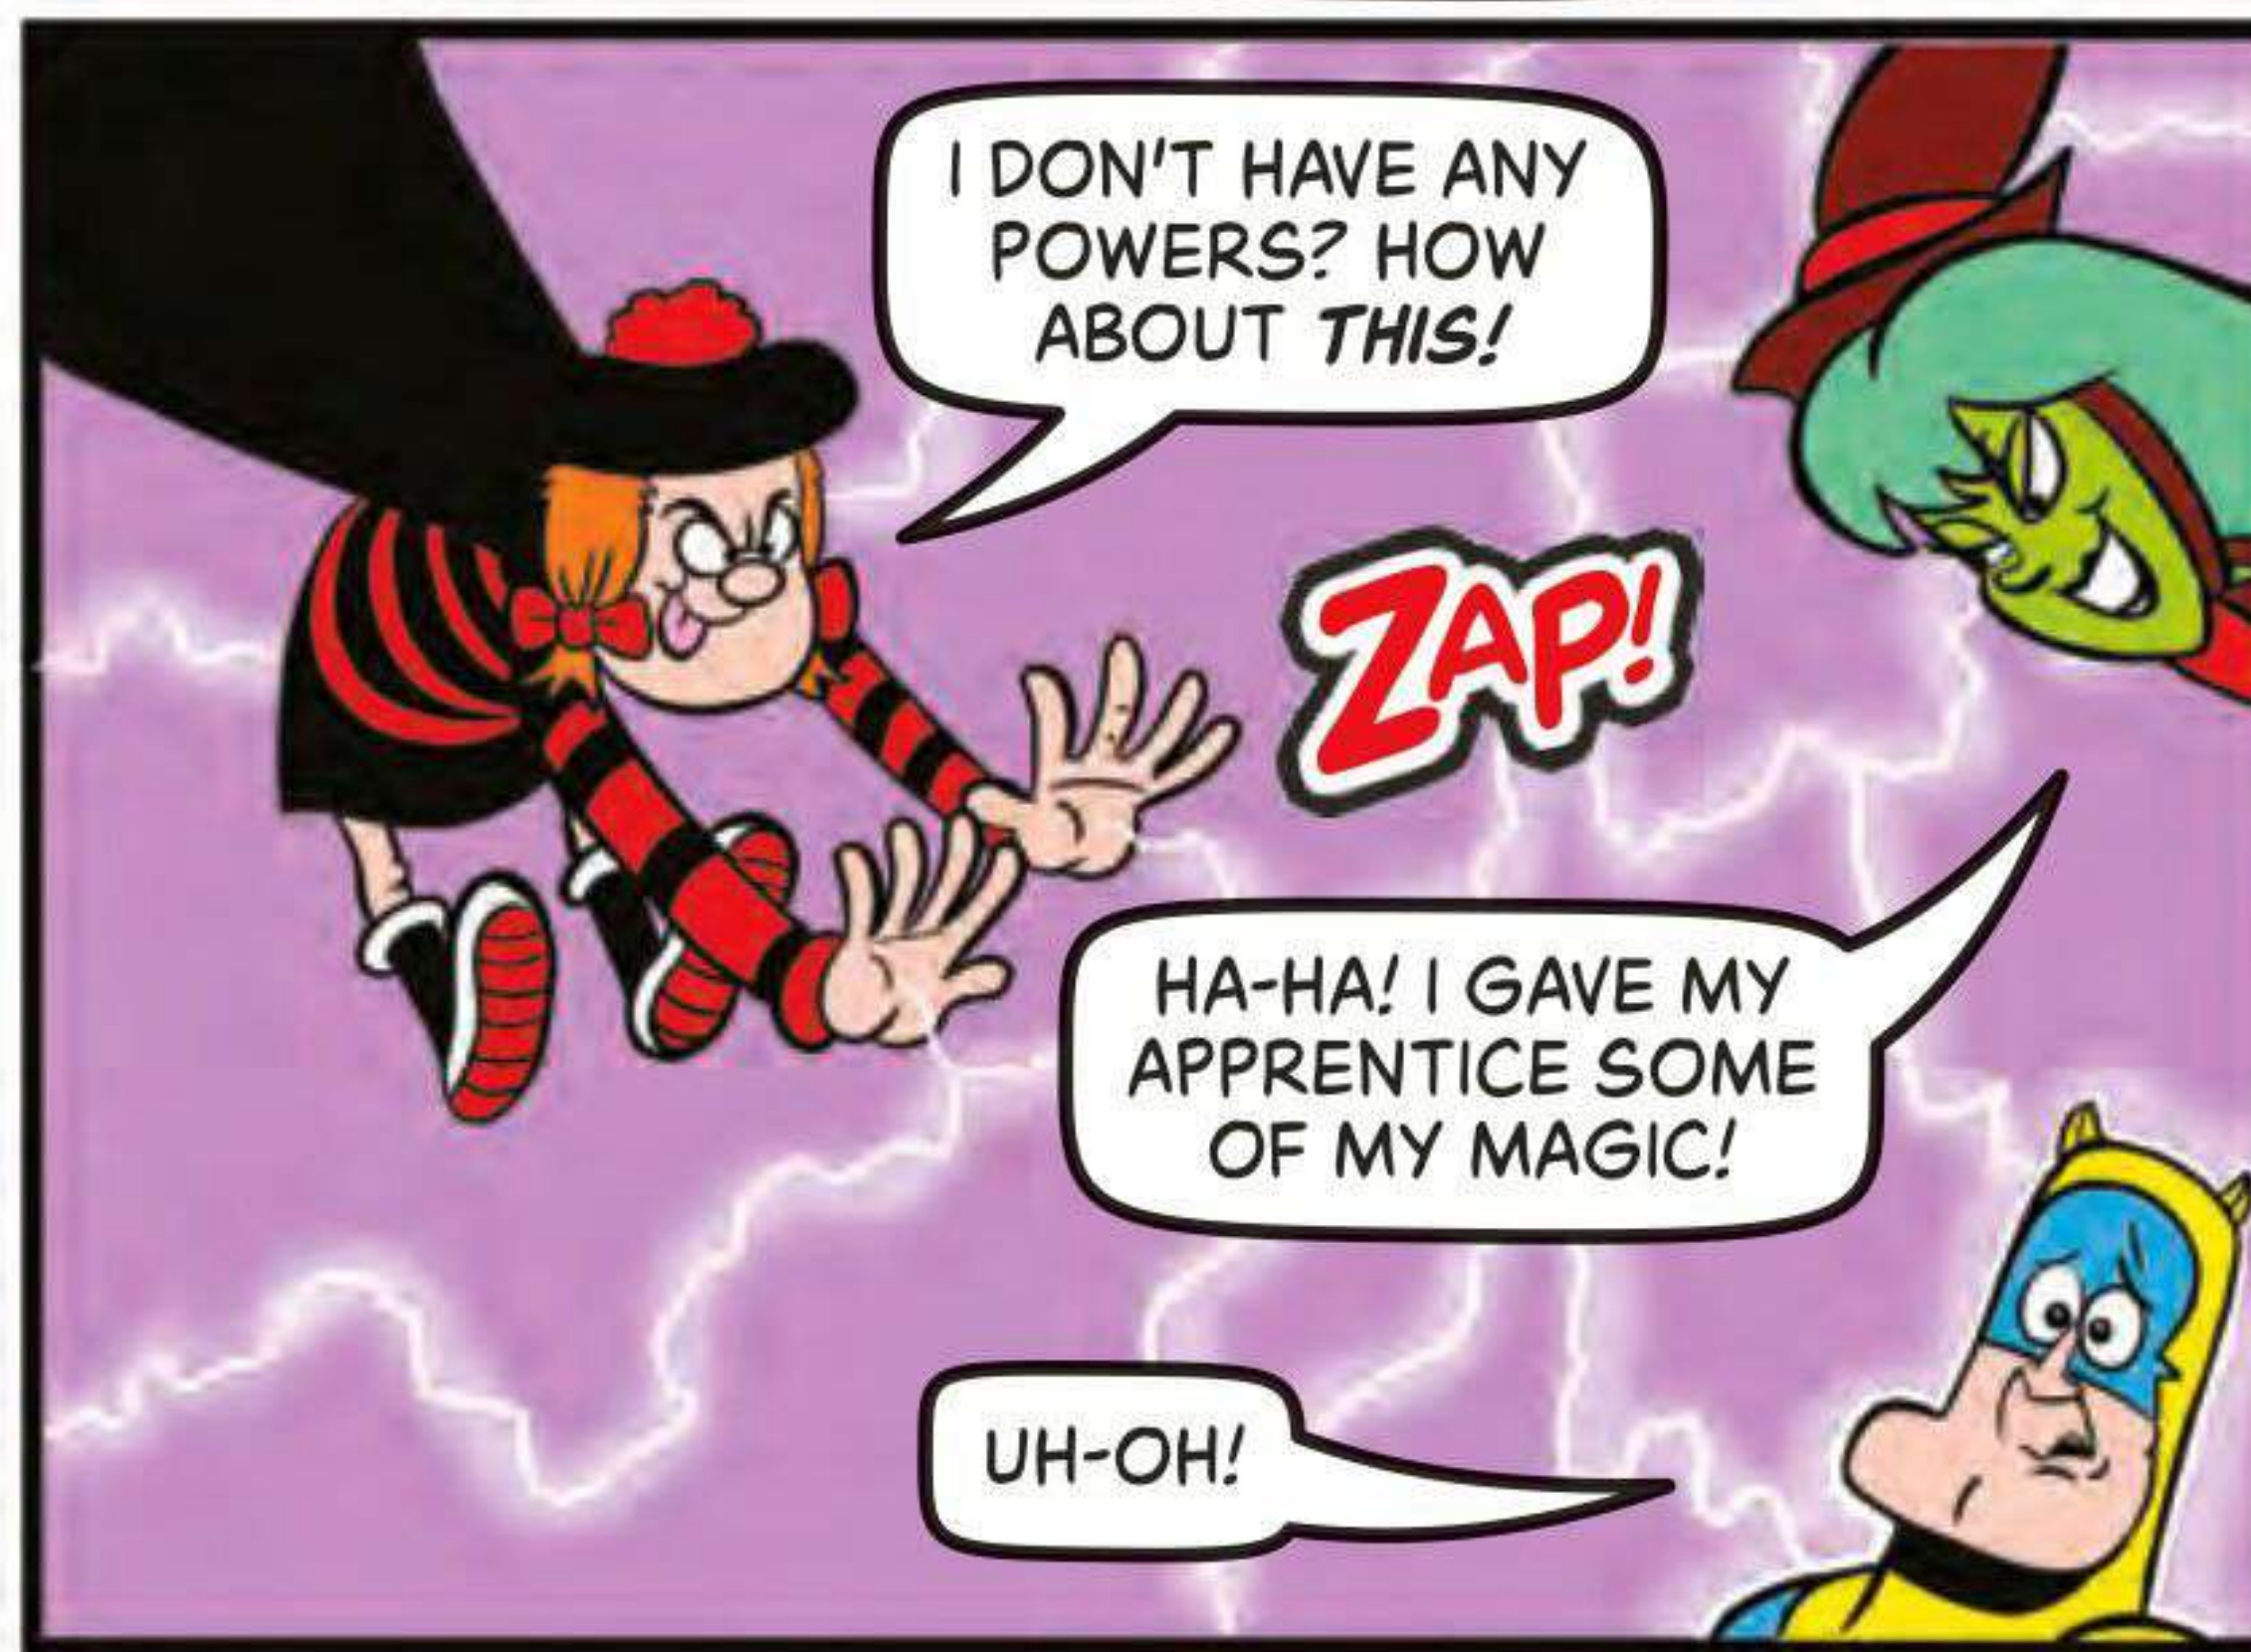

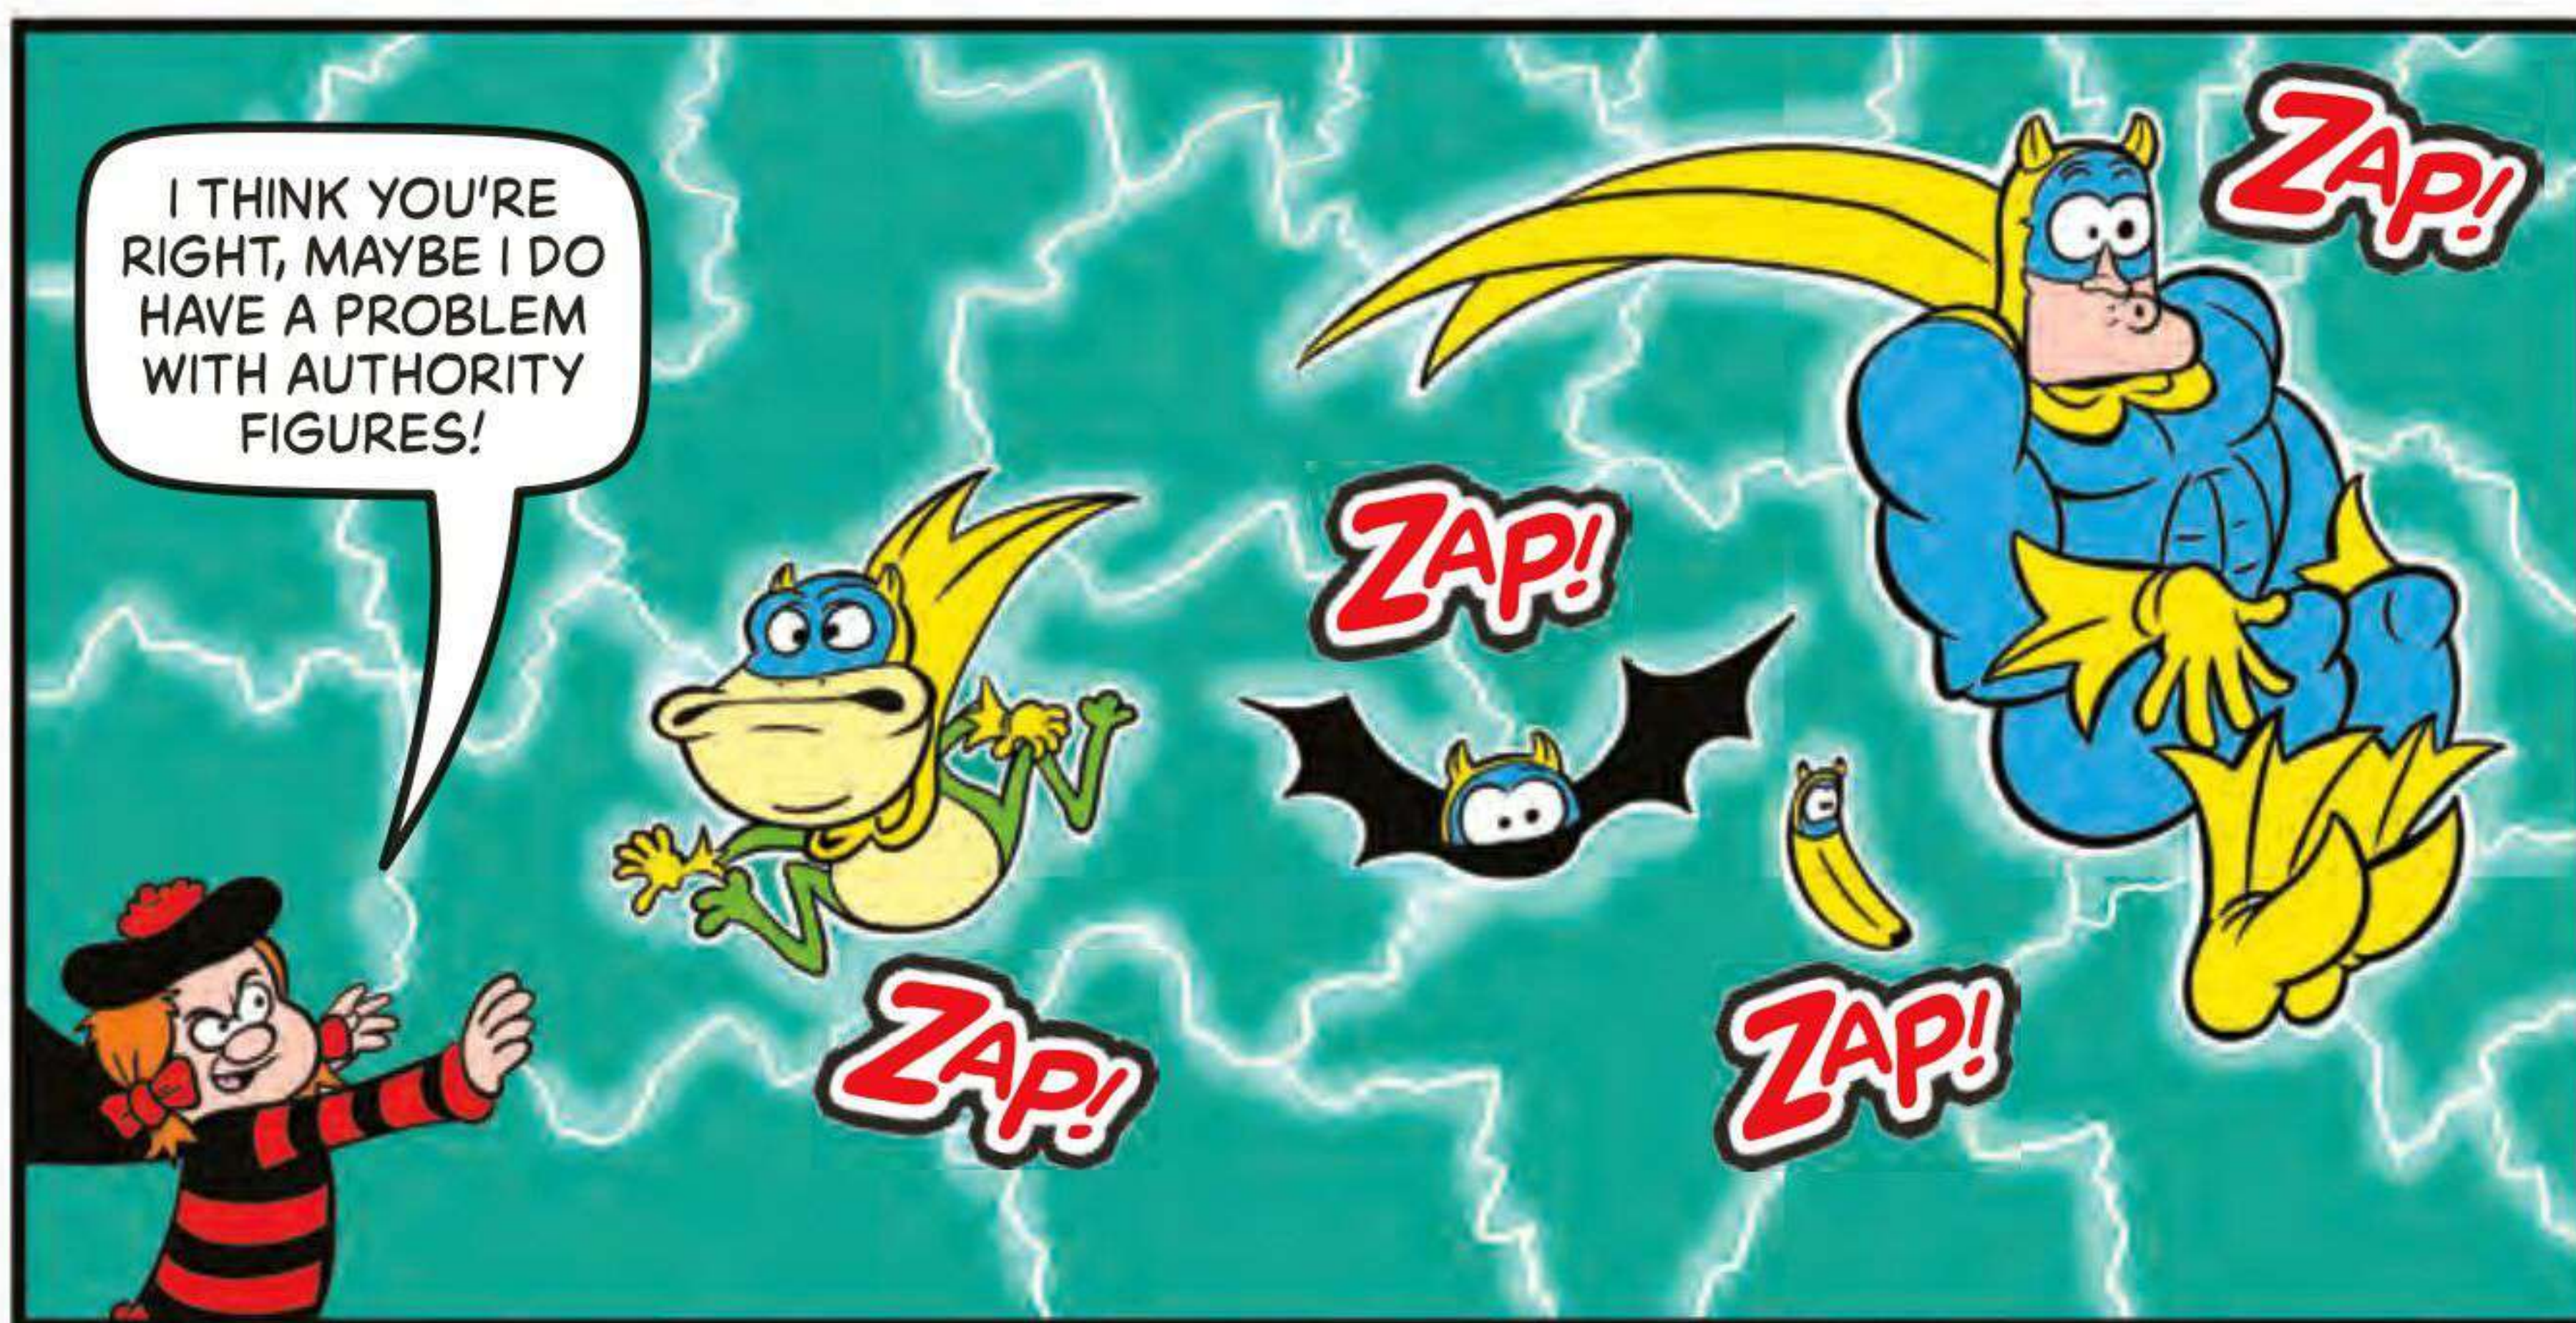

LONG JUMP!

With the help of an adult, draw a start line, then measure a line every two feet until you reach eight feet. With toes behind the start line, see who can jump the furthest from standing.
